A Continuum for 'Every Age and Every Stage'

As if fine dining, a beautiful setting and a host of activities aren't enough reasons to love Ferris Hills at West Lake, there's something else that sets it apart – peace of mind.

This peace of mind comes from knowing that the vibrant retirement community is part of UR Medicine Thompson Health's senior living continuum of care. In addition to a nearby skilled-nursing facility offering rehabilitation stays, the continuum includes the enriched living community of Clark Meadows, adjacent to Ferris Hills.

With private apartments, Clark Meadows offers concierge-level care including three meals daily in a private dining room, scheduled transportation for doctor's appointments and weekly housekeeping. In addition, the staff is available with medication reminders or help with daily tasks, if needed.

"At every age and every stage, we're here for our residents," said Ferris Hills' director, Aimee Ward. "Whether they just need a different setting for a short period of time or they decide it's time to consider enriched living, we make sure they are guided through the process by people who know them and care about them."

Ferris Hills resident Sybil Amico was grateful for Clark Meadows when she needed it following a long hospital stay for back problems. She knew she'd have mobility issues upon discharge and would need a little extra help for a while, so Clark Meadows "sounded like just what I needed." She wound up staying six weeks.

"From the moment I walked in the door, it was like a dream come true," she said. "People were there ready to help me, and it was just so comforting. I met so many nice people."

Fellow Ferris Hills resident Nan Bloomer had a similar experience last year when she stayed at Clark Meadows for several weeks while recovering from a fall and some surgeries.

"I have nothing but good things to say about Clark Meadows," she said. "It's excellent."
